

Alumni to Sponsor Play

CPYRGHT

The Yale University Drama School players will make their first Washington appearance in Stephen Vincent Benet's famous epic poem, "John Brown's Body" on March 29 in Lisner Auditorium.

The performance is being sponsored by local Yale alumni as a salute to the Civil War Centennial Commission, for the benefit of the Drama School scholarship fund.

The special performance was adapted for the stage by Charles Laughton, according to Herschel V. Williams of Washington and New York, playwright and Yale alumnus of both the university and its drama school.

The production includes music arranged and composed by Fenno Heath and a chorus of 25 in addition to the major speaking parts. This is one of the Drama School's first appearances away from New Haven with the exception of last year's production of "J. B." which toured Europe under the sponsorship of the cultural exchange program.
